UNIVERSITY AT ALBANY

CAMPUS CENTER AUDITORIUM

Call for Abstracts

Deadline: January 31, 2020

The RNA Institute's 7th Annual RNA Symposium brings together scientific experts, students and industry professionals who conduct basic, applied and translational research in RNA. The RNA Symposium is an opportunity to present your work to faculty, students and industry representatives and network with colleagues. It has attracted Nobel Laureates, as well as National Academy Members, distinguished HHMI principal investigators, renowned university professors, industry scientists and medical doctors, among others from around the world.

The 2020 Symposium includes talks from Sandra Wolin, Sarah Woodson, Thomas Tuschl, Alain Laederach, Christos Kyratsous, Shuling Guo, Myriam Gorospe, Elisa Franco, Victoria D'Souza, Lydia Contreras, Christine Chow, John Carulli, Philip Bevilacqua, and Marlene Belfort

Oral presentations by faculty, postdocs and students will be selected from submitted abstracts. You will be notified by February 25, 2020 if your abstract is chosen for a 15-minute oral presentation. Awards will be given for oral and poster presentations by trainees at all levels, including undergraduate, graduate and postdoctoral. For inclusion of your poster abstract in the symposium program booklet and consideration for an oral presentation, please submit your abstract at the link below by January 31, 2020. To have your proposal considered, please also register for the Symposium at the link below.
